Dual Degree Shared Credit Policy – Master’s AtW

Draft: 10-14.1.54

Conferral of Master’s Degrees for Students in Doctoral Degree Programs

A student making satisfactory progress in a doctoral program may be eligible to be awarded a master’s degree in the same discipline. The master’s degree program and the College of Graduate Studies have the authority to determine whether the doctoral program credits satisfactorily fulfill the master’s degree requirements. All requirements for the master’s degree must be fulfilled, including passing all ~~required~~ examinations and submitting a thesis, if so required. Up to a maximum of 9 SCH of substitutions are ~~The only~~ allowable, provided that the substitutions are higher level courses for their precise lower level counterparts, exclusive of substitutions for thesis hours, and up to 9 SCH of non-formal coursework within the same course type.

In such cases:

1. The program requirements for the master’s degree are governed by the requirement term used for the doctoral degree program.
2. The two degrees are not considered to be part of a formal “dual degree” program and, therefore, are not subject to the policies governing dual degree programs.
3. Courses credited towards the Master’s degree are not implemented as transfer credits to another program, and therefore fall outside of the transfer credit policy.

The general restriction that no credit hours may be counted for more than two degree programs applies to these master’s degrees as well.
