Reactivation of the M.S. in Management and Human Resources/Change Management Track, College of Business Administration

Here are the reasons why we are requesting to re-activate the MSM program:

- a) The program will be offered in a cohort format that will ensure 25-30 students per cohort,
- b) Classes will meet two nights a week enabling the students to complete the program within 16 months (this ensures timely graduation), and
- c) the program will be offered downtown to be convenient to most Orlando businesses.

I would appreciate if you can grant us a hegis code for the Professional MSM.

Thanks.

Description

The College of Business Administration offers a Master of Science in Management degree that provides an alternative to the MBA degree for students who desire specialized study and the development of a high level of professional proficiency in a functional area of business. The primary track in the Management program is Human Resources and Change Management. Students completing the master's program in Human Resources and Change Management will be prepared to work in organizations in such areas as human resources, strategic planning, organizational effectiveness, staffing, and employee relations.

Note: We are no longer accepting applications for this program, until further notice.

In addition, the College offers a doctoral (Ph.D.) program in Business Administration that includes a Management track.

Admission

For information on general UCF graduate admissions requirements that apply to all prospective students, please visit the Admissions and Registration section of the Graduate Catalog. Applicants must apply online. Please be sure to submit all requested material by the established deadline(s).

In addition to the general admission requirements, applicants to this program must provide:

- Official score of at least 500 on the Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) OR 1000 (verbal and quantitative) on the GRE.
- Evidence of prior GPA of 3.0.
- Three letters of recommendation.
- Essay (for details, see the college website).
- Resume.
- For applicants from countries where English is not the official language, or for an applicant whose bachelor's degree is not from an accredited U.S. institution, an official score of at least 230 (computer-based test; or equivalent score on the paper-based test) on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) is required.

Both GPA and Test Scores must be officially reported to the Division of Graduate Studies.

For consideration for college financial assistance, apply at least one month before the application deadline.

The MSM program offers an alternative to students who want to pursue graduate study in business, but who also desire a focus on management. The program is designed to appeal to those currently in management positions who want to develop additional expertise, as well as those who seek to move into the management track as a vehicle for career advancement.

The program is based on the belief that successful change involves aligning a firm's people and process with an ever-changing environment. As a result, the goals of our program are to provide you with the knowledge required to successfully anticipate, plan, and carry out changes. One main component of the program is a focus on developing practices and methods that align human resources activities with organizational strategies. The second component is designed to help you develop skills in recognizing the need for change, the factors that improve a firm's ability to absorb change, along with effective and appropriate responses to those changes.

Students with a wide variety of backgrounds, including those with degrees in economics, education, hospitality, nursing, psychology, and business, are encouraged to apply to this program. Students without an undergraduate degree in business must take a series of background courses by completing the MBA foundation core. Those who have these background courses may begin immediately in the core courses and elective courses listed below.

Application Due Dates

Please Note: The Master of Science in Management (Human Resource/Change Management) program is currently going through a reassessment of the program's course work requirements and market demand. Applications for this program after the Fall 2005 semester will not be accepted until further notice.

All students applying for fellowships must apply by the Fall Priority deadline date.

Financial Support

Graduate students may receive financial assistance through fellowships, assistantships, tuition support, or loans. For more information, see Financing Grad School, which describes the types of financial assistance available at UCF and provides general guidance in planning your graduate finances. The Financial Information section of the Graduate Catalog is another key resource.

Key points about financial support:

- If you're interested in financial assistance, you're strongly encouraged to apply for admission early. A complete application for admission, including all supporting documents, must be received by the priority date listed for your program under "Admissions."
- You must be admitted to a graduate program before the university can consider awarding financial assistance to you.
- If you want to be considered for loans and other need-based financial assistance, review the UCF Student Financial Assistance website at <http://finaid.ucf.edu> and complete the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) form, which is available online at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov>. Apply early and allow up to six weeks for the FAFSA form to be processed.
- UCF Graduate Studies awards university graduate fellowships, with most decisions based on nominations from the colleges and programs. All admitted graduate students are automatically considered in this nomination process. To be eligible for a fellowship, students must be accepted as a graduate student in a degree program and be enrolled full-time. University graduate fellowships are not affected by FAFSA determination of need.
- Please note that select fellowships do require students to fill out a fellowship application (either a university fellowship application, an external fellowship application, or a college or school fellowship application). For university fellowship applications, see Financing Grad School.
- For information on assistantships (including teaching, research, and general graduate assistantships) or tuition support, contact the graduate program director of your major.

Proposed Changes to the Sociology PhD Program

The Graduate Committee and Faculty of the Sociology Department propose to revise the curriculum for the Sociology PhD program. The proposed revisions only affect the required courses in the curriculum not the electives or dissertation credit hours. The total program hours remain at 60 hours beyond the master's degree. The changes are outlined below.

Current Required Courses:

Total Hours 21:

SYA 7019

SYA 7309

SYA 7407

Proposed Revisions: (Effective 2008-09 Catalog year)

Total Hours 18:

SYA7658

Restricted Elective: (Select one from the following four courses:)

SYA 6315

SYA 6425

SYA 5652

SYA 7457

Rationale:

The Sociology graduate program proposes to revise the required course portion the PhD curriculum. The proposed changes would allow doctoral students to complete their required courses in their first year in the program allowing more time to develop their research agenda and prepare for their dissertation. These changes will also simplify scheduling and allow the department to offer a greater variety of substantive courses to enhance the program of study for all of our graduate students. These changes will not affect other units and as there are no changes to specialization areas no special tracking will be needed.

Proposed changes are marked in this copy.

SOCIOLOGY

Description

The Department of Sociology offers a graduate program leading to the doctoral degree in Sociology. The program provides training in the skills necessary to secure research careers in academic and nonacademic professions and emphasizes applied research in community-based settings. The program is organized around a curriculum that combines strong grounding in the acquisition of methodological skills with advanced study in one of the department's four areas of concentration: the Sociology of Crime/Deviance, Domestic Violence, Social Inequalities, and Urban/Environmental Sociology.

This program is one of only a few in the United States that focuses on applied research and has a strong research focus. Program graduates will be trained in specific applied research skills such as data analysis, program evaluation, data-driven decision making, and policy analysis. Combined with course work in one of the four substantive areas, graduates will be trained for employment in academic settings, industry, business, government and nonprofit agencies.

The Department of Sociology also offers a Master of Arts in Applied Sociology. For more information, please click here.

Degrees Offered

Doctor of Philosophy in Sociology

Admission

For information on general UCF graduate admissions requirements that apply to all prospective students, please visit the Admissions and Registration section of the Graduate Catalog. Applicants must apply online. Please be sure to submit all requested material by the established deadline(s). In addition to the general admission requirements, applicants must provide:

- An official transcript providing evidence of an earned master's degree from an accredited institution;
- An official competitive score (verbal and quantitative combined) on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), which must have been taken within the last five years;
- A minimum GPA of 3.0 for all master's level work.
- Three letters of recommendation assessing the applicants potential to do doctoral level work, of which one must come from a member of the applicant's graduate committee at the master's level;
- A personal statement of 250-500 words identifying the area of research interest, describing the applicant's academic and professional experiences and goals;
- A writing sample of the applicant's work that is at least 2,500 words and demonstrates ability to complete advanced graduate work; and
- For applicants from countries where English is not the official language, or for an applicant

whose bachelor's degree is not from an accredited U.S. institution, an official score of at least 220 (computer-based test; or equivalent score on the paper-based test) on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) is required.

Applicant's records will be reviewed on an individual basis for academic deficiencies and evaluated to assess their potential for success in the program. Supplemental course work may be recommended. Consult the graduate program director whenever questions arise.

Meeting minimum UCF admissions criteria does not guarantee program admission. Final admission is also based on evaluation of the applicant's abilities, past performance, recommendations, match of this program to the applicant's career/academic goals, and applicant's potential for completing the degree.

Students must earn a grade of "B" (3.0) or better in the program's required courses. Courses may be retaken to achieve a better grade; however, students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.0 in their program of study.

Major Area of Concentration Electives—12 Credit Hours

Students will select a minimum of 12 credit hours of nonrestricted electives in one of the department's four areas of concentration.

- Sociology of Crime/Deviant Behavior
- Domestic Violence
- Social Inequalities
- Urban/Environmental Sociology

Additional courses may be used as well, but the student must obtain the approval of their adviser and the graduate director prior to enrolling in these courses. No 4000-level courses may count toward the Program of Study for the Ph.D. Program.

Transfer Policy

Up to 9 hours of graduate-level course work with grade "B" or higher not taken as part of a master's degree program may, with approval from the department and college, be transferred into the Sociology Ph.D. program.

Qualifying Exams. In the semester after completing the programs required courses, a student will sit for two qualifying examinations. The qualifying examinations will be designed by a faculty grading committee and reflect the course work in the areas of Theory and Methods/Statistics. The qualifying examinations will be used to determine the students eligibility to complete the doctoral degree. The exams will screen for research ability, technical skills, and mastery of the disciplines core content. Each examination will be a five hour examination that will be used to determine the students eligibility to complete the doctoral degree. Qualifying examinations will be administered in the Fall and Spring semesters, at a date arranged by the graduate committee and a student must notify the Graduate Program Director in writing of their intent to take the qualifying examinations at least one month before the date fixed for examination. Students passing the qualifying exams will continue with their scheduled examination period. If the exam is failed a second time, the student will be dropped from the Sociology doctoral program.

Major Area Examination. After completing the program's two qualifying examinations and 12 hours of course work in their major area of concentration, a student will sit for a major area examination. The student's adviser and faculty who teach in the selected area will design and administer the examination, which will be based on course work completed in the student's major area of concentration.

 → Unrestricted Electives (12 credit hours). The unrestricted electives provide students with an opportunity to expand their doctoral training beyond the program's core courses and the restricted electives in the student's major area of concentration. Six of these hours must be taken outside of the Sociology Department. Unrestricted electives may include regularly scheduled graduate courses, graduate-level courses in programs outside the Sociology Department, independent study courses with a highly focused student/faculty research component, and a research practicum, which enable students to gain valuable research experience in a nonacademic setting. Unrestricted electives may be taken at any point in the student's program of study. The research practicum and courses from other departments must be approved by the student's adviser and the graduate program director.

Dissertation (15 credit hours). The dissertation will be completed through a minimum of 15 hours of dissertation credit, which students will use to accomplish original research on a topic approved by their adviser and three committee members (one of whom shall be from a relevant field outside the Department of Sociology). The dissertation must conform to standard disciplinary, institutional, and departmental practices. Students may not enroll for dissertation credit until they have completed all examinations in their program of study. A dissertation will be required for completion of the Ph.D. Oral defense of the dissertation proposal and the completed dissertation are required.

Applied Research Practicum (Optional). An important component of the Ph.D. program in Sociology will be the research practicum. The practicum will be a three to six-semester-hour directed research experience in a nonacademic setting, which will provide a "hands-on" approach for advanced doctoral students. Although completion of a research practicum will not be required for all doctoral students, it is expected that some students, including most of those seeking employment in research positions in public and private agencies, will take advantage of this opportunity. Doctoral students must pass their qualifying examinations before being eligible for a research practicum. The student's graduate adviser and the department's graduate program director must approve the research practicum. Hours completed in a research practicum will count as unrestricted electives in the student's program of study.

Financial Support

Graduate students may receive financial assistance through fellowships, assistantships, tuition support, or loans. For more information, see Financing Grad School, which describes the types of financial assistance available at UCF and provides general guidance in planning your graduate finances. The Financial Information section of the Graduate Catalog is another key resource.

Key points about financial support:

- If you are interested in financial assistance, apply early.
- If you want to be considered for loans and other need-based financial assistance, review the UCF Student Financial Assistance website at <http://finaid.ucf.edu> and complete the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) form, which is available online at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov>. Apply early and allow up to six weeks for the FAFSA form to be processed.
- UCF Graduate Studies awards university graduate fellowships, with most decisions based on nominations from the colleges and programs. University graduate fellowships are awarded based on academic merit and therefore are not affected by FAFSA determination of need. To be eligible for a fellowship, students must be accepted as a graduate student in a degree program and be enrolled full-time.
- Please note that select fellowships do require students to fill out a fellowship application (either a university fellowship application, an external fellowship application, or a college or school fellowship application). For university fellowship applications, see Financing Grad School.
- Assistantships (including teaching, research, and general graduate assistantships) include tuition support. Students must be enrolled full-time and be in good academic standing to hold an assistantship.
